

Description:

Photography isn't just about pointing a camera and pushing a button. In this course, Kathy O' Leary shows her students how to truly observe the world around them through the eye of a camera lens. Students will not only learn about the history of photography, but will have hands-on experience from beginning to end in the process of creating unique portraits, of their own.

Instructor:

Kathi O' Leary is a professional photographer, who makes her home in San Francisco. For nine years, she has taught the love and beauty of photography to both children and adults. She keeps her lessons fun, while challenging each of her students to meet high standards, while looking at the world in a whole new way.

Objectives:

- This will develop of the lifelong skill of capturing scenes through the art of photographs.
- Ability to begin a large project and complete it, by using smaller steps throughout the process.
- Develops the skills of observation and problem solving.